BICENTENNIAL CONCERT HELD SUNDAY, AUG. 24

On Sunday evening, Aug. 24, the West Parish Congregational Church was the setting for a delightful concert of music written by American composers and presented by the Bethel Bicentennial Choir with Edward H. Hastings, organist and director.

Members of the Choir included: sopranos Frances Harding, Marie Wilson, Elizabeth Tebbets, Elsie Waldron, Elizabeth Bane and Janet Stowell; altos Carol Fiske, Margaret Davis, Nancy Davis, Mickey Rountree, Barbara Hill and Geraldine Howe; tenors Stephen Seames, Frank Fiske, Maizy Dolven, and Richard Dolven; basses Mac Davis, Dexter Landers and John Osborn.

The concert began with Mr. Hastings' able rendition of two works, "Voluntary in A" and "A Lesson for the Organ," by William Selby (1738-1788). Selby was a London organist and composer who settled in Boston in 1771, and organized the first music festival ever given in the colonies.

The choir then sang three psalms; Psalm 136 from the Almsworth Psalter which came to America with the Pilgrims; Psalm 78 by Tans'ur (1706-1783), which has been sung for generations by the alumni at Harvard Commencement; Psalm 117 by Selby. All three pieces were well done and demonstrated the ability of the singers to negotiate some difficult phrasing, variations in rhythm, and the dynamics which make music come alive. It is difficult to believe that the choir had only three rehearsals, but informed sources reveal that this was so.

"Sinfonia," a melodic composition in four movements, by John C. Moller (1803) was the organist's next piece, and again we were reminded that we were in the presence of a musician who is sensitive to the subtleties and changes of mood in any given work. The first half of the program came to a close with three choral compositions by William Billings (1746-1806). Billings was a native of Boston, a self-taught musician, and today is generally considered to be our first really original native-born composer. The "America" was strong and vibrant, followed by "To What Effect."

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The selectmen will open bids tonight (Thursday) on the Buffalo Fire Pumper and the 1946 Chevrolet Coleman truck. As of this writing there has been very little interest expressed for either vehicle.

Robert Crockett has been appointed to the planning board for a five year term. The board will meet next Wednesday night. Their prime objective is to review all the Town Ordinances with the thought of updating them at a town meeting. The original ordinance was adopted in 1956 with many additions through the years. They need to be reviewed and compiled into one booklet.

The town office will be closed Monday, Sept. 1, in observance of Labor Day.

LABOR DAY LIGHTS "ON" BY STATE POLICE CRUISERS AS SAFETY REMINDER

All Maine State Police cruisers on patrol will have their headlights "on" during daylight this Labor Day week end to remind motorists of this high fatality period.

"Extra traffic assignments will be given to certain non-traffic Troopers, in addition to strict enforcement of traffic laws, in an effort to help reduce accidents and keep traffic flowing smoothly," said Col. Donald E. Nichols, Chief of Maine State Police.

The Maine State Police urge motorists to take "some of the work" out of driving this week end by not speeding, lane switching, nor weaving that cause strain on what is traditionally a holiday of relaxation.

And think of the wear and tear on engine and tires, plus the additional gas consumption, add the State Police.

"There's little work harder than resolving the problems created by an accident," said Col. Nichols. "These can involve trips to the hospital or repair shop, long report forms, explanations to police and insurance companies—and that all spells WORK."

Labor Day week end motorists are urged to drive defensively and give special attention to the increased holiday "traffic," say the Maine State Police.

WATER DISTRICT TRUSTEES TO MEET SEPT. 2

The Trustees of the Bethel Water District will hold their regular monthly business meeting at 7:00 p. m., Sept. 2, 1975, at the Fire Station.

The Trustees have been taking steps to correct the main cause of the heavy sedimentation of the water supply in Chapman Brook Area, resulting from the heavy downpour on July 24. Logging activity was ceased immediately and skid road erosion control measures were applied. Further control work is continuing. Future logging activity will only be considered under frozen ground conditions.

LABOR DAY BALL GAME SHAPING UP

Plans are in the final stages for the Labor Day Challenge softball game between members of the Bethel Democratic and Republican parties. Team representatives Paul McGuire and Louise Lincoln met on Tuesday to agree upon rules of play. The nine, composed of many legendary athletic figures of Bethel's past as well as talented newcomers and those more politically than athletically inclined, will gather on the Gould Athletic Field for a 1 p. m. game on Monday. There will be no limit to the size of the team rosters, but all players on the roster must play at least a token amount, in the 7-inning contest. One umpire is to be chosen by each team. Only enrolled party members may play.

Democratic Team Captain Paul McGuire has announced the addition of new players to his squad: Telstar duo John and Pauline Apple, Dennis Wheeler of tape-measure home run fame, Burnie Rice, Ill Berry, Dave and Suzi Van Ness, Charlie Newell, George Nickerson, Duke Boyd, Jack Brooks, with more to come. Any registered Democrat may play. Contact Paul McGuire 4-2365, or Charlie Newell 412089 to sign up. Not registered? Visit Merton "T. C." Brown in the Town Office to come aboard.

Spectators will be welcome at the game which promises to rival if not surpass, any of the high moments in the pages of Gould or Telstar's sports lore, not to mention those summer baseball and softball "Good old days". Come on out to the ball game and cheer your team on.

HEAD START CENTER PROGRESSING AT W. BETHEL

Although the new Head Start center, the old West Bethel school building, will not be ready for our children by the start of our school year, it will be ready by Christmas vacation. The exterior has been painted and the broken window panes replaced. The architects are finalizing their plans for interior renovations. The inside, when completed, will comply with Federal regulations enabling the center to be licensed for a regular Day Care center, including complete kitchen facilities. Before starting work on the inside there are quite a few old school desks to be disposed of. These are being sold at very reasonable prices and may be seen tomorrow, Friday, Aug. 29, at the school from 10:00-1:00. Proceeds will go toward the building fund.

Again this year we will be taking eighteen four year olds. We would like to thank Stan Fox for kicking off our fund-raising activities this year with his Hair-cuts for Head Start day held today.

There will be a public open house at the new center as soon as possible after completion. The Center is being renovated to be used as a multi-purpose building. When Head Start is not in session it will be available for other groups. It's a dream come true at long last for our Head Start program here in Bethel.

Why do millions of people converge into the mountains of New England every summer. They come because of the mountain scenery, the fishing, camping, hiking, and just for the mountain. I was one of them this week who rode through the notches. Even in this long settled and crowded corner, there are still wild and beautiful places, hidden between the road lines on your map. No use trying to see it all at once for it will not reveal itself; you must go back again and again. More and more people are leaving the roads to see New England by hiking different trails. I saw many and wanted to explore.

The trees are indeed impressive. When one stands among them, the only sound is the steady wash of wind through the tree tops above. There is the fragrance of pine needles and an abundance of young growth.

The raw beauty of the mountains themselves; rearing high above the forests, the bare, rocky rubble cradled near the summits is fascinating. The scenery, as always, to me was grand and picturesque, from beginning to end. Of course we didn't miss the Old Man of the Mountain jutting from the sheer east cliff of Cannon Mountain. Although I have seen it many times, its 40-foot high visage is still a marvel.

Here in Franconia Notch with its rugged surroundings, nothing could be more lovely and inspiring. The towering mountain rising is mirrored in Profile Lake while a little further on there is another beauty. This is Echo Lake and nestles in the side of the mountain and reflects the clouds and sailing birds.

The flume was nearby but we didn't visit it today.

As I photographed the Great Falls we saw the Boise Rock. I found this little story about it.

"A little off the highway in the notch is an enormous, oddly shaped boulder set down by the ice at such an angle that under one side of it a dozen people could easily take shelter. There is a somber story connected with it. Once in the early days, when the road was not much more than a trail, a lone horseman was making his way in the gloom of a cloudy day. The impending blizzard struck around him at a point near this rock; he had the wit to realize that he could not go on. The temperature was dropping rapidly; even if he could find shelter under the rock, he might not survive the cold. Boise made a fast decision. He killed his horse, skinned it, dragged the still-warm hide into the shelter of the glacial boulder and wrapped himself in it. When a search party found him, the traveler was alive but tightly frozen in!

Of course for rugged scenery, the most imposing group of mountains was the Presidential Range, dominated by the massive barren summit of Mount Washington.

So through the Kancamagus

Highway, through Franconia and through Crawford we visited and picnicked enjoying the wonders of nature.

"Wild the country, bright the sky. Reminding one of time passed by.

Lonely and still, as in peaceful sleep. Are her giant cliffs and valleys deep.

White clouds drifting o'er the blue,

A centuries-old scene, ever new. Sunsets brighter than red flame,

Never two that are the same. Days of warmth and friendly sun,

A cooling breeze when day is done.

As time drew near for me to depart

The picture was tightly locked in my heart.

Now in my memory's admiration

I daily review God's great creation."—Lucille Hunt Linn

30 Seconds WITH THE NAZARENE

Rev. Barbara Huse, Pastor
Bethel Church of the Nazarene

"If at first you don't succeed, cry, cry again!" Hmm! Now that does not sound just right does it? Maybe it is supposed to be, "If at first you don't succeed try, try again!" Well it sounds much better anyway. We may think that only children use these tactics to obtain what they want, "Cry, cry again!" Oh yes, come on now, admit it, we all tried it but I assure you some of us did not like it! Reason being, Mama bear put hand on down "Sit and cry all gone! We still want our own way." "Do what we want 'Say what we want' The Big 'I' right in the middle of everything! Have you noticed that 'I' is right in the middle of that unpopular word sin? Or do we spell it just a little 'mistake' these days? Look at what the Bible says again please. We read it just recently, "All we like sheep have gone astray we have turned everyone to his own way; and the Lord hath laid on him the iniquity of us all." Isaiah 53:6.

For each additional family member add $1050. Children from families whose income is at or below the levels shown are eligible for free or reduced priced-meals or free milk. In addition, families not meeting these criteria but with other unusual expenses due to high medical expenses, shelter costs in excess of 30% of income, special educational expenses due to the mental or physical condition of a child, and disaster or casualty losses are urged to apply.

Application forms will be sent to all homes in a letter to parents. Additional copies are available at the principal's office in each school. The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility. Applications may be submitted at any time during the year.

In certain cases foster children are also eligible for these benefits. If a family has foster children living with them and wishes to apply for such meals and milk for these foster children it would be advisable to file a separate application for the foster children.

In the operation of child feeding programs, no child will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, or national origin. Under the provisions of the policy, Howard Walen, assistant principal, Telstar Regional High School, will review the applications and determine eligibility. If a parent is dissatisfied with the ruling of the official, he may make a request either orally or in writing to Basil Kinney, superintendent of schools, 824-2855, for a hearing to appeal the decision. The policy contains an outline of the hearing procedure.

A copy of the complete policy is on file in the office of the superintendent of schools and may be reviewed by any interested party.

MORE FINANCIAL AID AT UMO THIS YEAR

Nearly $2 million more in financial aid has been distributed to students at the U. of M. at Orono for the 1975-76 academic year than was available last year. The total handed out in federal and university funds totals some $6,100,000, according to UMO director of student aid John Madigan. The increase stems from new federal appropriations in the work-study program and a change in the distribution formula for the National Direct Student Loan program.

For additional information call Richard Blake at 824-2471 between 7:00 and 4:30, Monday through Friday.

WATERFOWL SEASON TO BE DECIDED SEPTEMBER 2

The federal options under which Maine's waterfowl hunting seasons will be set have been received by the Maine Fish and Game Department.

The choice of seasons and bag limits are similar to those of last year except that two of the options provide for two additional days of duck hunting this year.

Exact dates and bag limit determinations will be made by Fish and Game Commissioner Maynard F. Marsh following a public meeting of the Maine Waterfowl Council, to be held Tuesday, Sept. 2, at 7:30 p. m. at Nutting Hall at the University of Maine, Orono.

This year's duck hunting framework allows a 47-day season with a daily limit of either four ducks (including no more than two black ducks) or five ducks (including no more than one black duck).

Under either option, the season can be 50 days, provided it opens on a Wednesday at noon. If a split 50-day season is selected, both openings must occur on a Wednesday at noon.

The opening date of the duck season may not be earlier than Oct. 1.

The optional "point system" for determining the daily limit of ducks is again being offered to Maine hunters, with season length options the same as under conventional bag limit regulations.

If the point system is not selected, hunters may take two blue-wing teal daily in addition to the regular bag limit for nine consecutive days during the regular duck season.

A special scap season is again being offered, with restrictions similar to previous years.

Also to be discussed at the Orono meeting are the seasons on geese and sea ducks, both with federal frameworks the same as last year's.

For the first time in several years, brant hunting will be allowed during a 30-day season and with a daily limit of four birds. The brant season may not open any earlier than Nov. 10.

Also allowed this year is a 30 day season on snow geese (including blue geese) which must be within the regular waterfowl season. The limit on snow geese is two daily.

Bus 14, Burton Hathaway, Greenwood City at 8:10, Richardson Hollow Rd. at 8:25, Old County Rd. at 8:35, then to Woodstock Elementary School.

Bus 32, Ruby Hathaway, Gore Rd. at Rt. 232, at 8:15 toward Locke Mills, dropping at school.

THE TRUTH THAT HEALS

A Christian Science radio series

A TRIBUTE

These sincere words express the sentiment of the people who knew "Bill". Hearts were saddened at the closing of a full and happy life. Bill will be remembered for his welcoming manner, friendly ways and soaring spirit. He had a gentle subtle wit that was a delight to those who knew him well. His dependability in everything he did will long be remembered. In the love and appreciation of his wife and family he was happiest. He always looked for the best in others and gave of the best he had. The profusion of flowers at the funeral service on Aug. 18, made a testimony of the love and respect of his many friends.

The following verse by Esther F. Thom could well have been written for Alton Luxton.

"True friendliness is being kind in every word and deed. It's helping without thought of gain. Wherever there is need. It's searching for happiness. To share and give away. It is giving with a heart. That grows in love each day. Real friendliness is empathy. And being understood. It's ceasing never, striving ever. For another's good."

Dear Editor,

I would like to comment on the Greenwood City news column that appears in your paper weekly.

I think that probably everyone knows that Colista Morgan has a talent for writing. But does she have to display her love for nature in her column?

I realize that some people may enjoy her "wilderness wanderings", but frankly, I don't. It would be better if her nature tales weren't so lengthy. She dedicates 95% of her column to nature.

I suggest that she shorten her experience a little. This letter was not written to be cruel but to simply call her attention to her news column.

PREPARED CHILDBIRTH ORGANIZATION CLASSES TO START SEPTEMBER 1

The Prepared Childbirth Organization of Rumford announces that a 6 week series of classes in childbirth education will begin on September 8 for all interested parents in their last trimester of pregnancy. These will be held at the Rumford Library Public Room from 7-9 p. m. on six consecutive Monday evenings, Sept. 8, 15, 22, 29; Oct. 6 and 13. Couples will note that this is a change in location and day from last year's classes and that the series has been lengthened from five to six classes to offer a more extensive program including post-partum.

Couples are asked to pre-register with Louise Stickney 364-4241 so that they may be placed in this series or the 2nd series to begin Nov. 3, according to their stage of pregnancy and class size.

Based on the Lamaze Method, format for the classes will include body-building and relaxation exercises geared toward conditioning the pregnant woman's body for a healthier pregnancy and an easier childbirth; precise breathing patterns which help to overcome the discomforts of labor and delivery and provide the opportunity for husband and wife to work as a team in the birth process; and instruction on labor and delivery and postpartum. A film on prepared childbirth and discussion sessions will also be a part of the classes.

Added to their already well-rounded library of books available to parents for their education and enjoyment, the Prepared Childbirth Organization has purchased several new editions, among those a primer for expectant fathers, more books on nursing and a new book of exercises, written by Elizabeth Bing.

Husbands are encouraged to attend with their wives so that they may be trained to act as a coach alongside their wives during labor and delivery and thus to be an active participant in the birth of their child. Each woman planning to attend should wear slacks and bring with her two pillows and a blanket as much of the exercises and breathing patterns will be done on the floor.

Louise Stickney, Gloria Buckingham, Cindy Gaudin and Sandi Chipman, instructors of the course who have themselves been prepared mothers, have been busy

Mrs. Craig A. Boyd

BOYD - BURGER

The wedding of Miss Janis Louise Burger to Craig Andrew Boyd took place on Aug. 2 in Trinity Church On-The-Green, New Haven, Conn. The Rev. C. Lawson Willard and the Rev. Andrew Fidler officiated. A reception followed in Bill Miller's Dance Village, Branford.

Mr. and Mrs. Dudley C. Burger, Branford, Conn., and Mr. and Mrs. Andrew Boyd of West Bethel are the parents of the couple.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Miss Susan Gay Burger, her sister, as maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Sara Kellogg and Miss Cynthia Marston, both of Bangor.

Mark Sweeney of Turners Falls, Mass., was the best man. Guests were ushered by Tom Hinman of Farmington, and Curtis Cole, of Bethel.

The bride chose an empire style gown of white ruffles with puffed sleeves. It was handmade by her friend, Miss Sue Best, of Weston, Conn. In her hair she wore a wreath of sweetheart roses, baby's breath and stephanotis, and she carried white sweetheart roses, baby's breath and stephanotis centered with pink sweetheart roses.

All the attendants wore patchwork design gowns in pastel shades of pink, yellow, blue and green.

Following a trip to New Brunswick, the couple are now residing in Bethel.

Mrs. Boyd holds a B. S. degree in child development from the University of Maine at Orono where she graduated in May. Her husband, who was graduated from the same university in 1973, received a B. A. degree in History. Mr. Boyd is employed by the Sunday River Tree Service Company.

during the summer reorganizing the classes to offer more information to couples and provide for more practice time for exercise and breathing patterns. They are proud to announce the Organization is now a member of the ICEA (International Childbirth Education Assoc.) and attended the ICEA Eastern Regional Conference in Scranton, Pa. in June. They look forward to the new classes and the opportunity to help prepare as many as possible for the joyous birth-day of their child.

FEDERAL FACILITIES

John A. S. McGlennon
Regional Administrator
U. S. Environmental Protection Agency

The federal government engages in a wide range of activities that carry with them the potential for environmental damage. They also carry with them a strong commitment to prevent that damage. In fact, a Presidential Executive Order states that the federal government will provide leadership in the prevention and control of air and water pollution. Executive Order 11752, signed on Dec. 17, 1972, requires federal agencies to implement pollution control projects to bring their installations into compliance with applicable environmental standards. The program is a continuing one; as standards for air and water quality become more stringent, federal installations must take action to come into compliance with new standards. Federal facilities must meet the same air and water quality standards that private citizens and private corporations must meet.

In the six New England states, there are more than 1,000 federal facilities composed of approximately 15,000 buildings and employing about 125,000 people. These facilities include Army bases, post offices, lighthouses, shipyards, office buildings, border stations and national forests, parks and seashores. When all these are added together, the federal government is the largest land-owner and employer in New England, larger than International Paper Company, Sears Roebuck, or General Motors. Thus, it is potentially the largest polluter. The reason it is not the largest polluter is the $39 million dollars that the federal government is spending for air and water pollution control at its various installations.

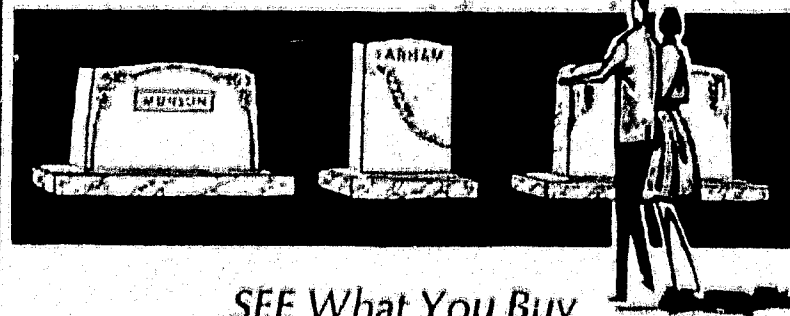

More than twice as much money has been spent for water pollution control as has been spent for air, because the water pollution problem is so much bigger. Since 1965, the federal government has completed construction of $10.5 million worth of water pollution control technology on federal property. In addition, $17 million worth of projects is currently either under construction or about to begin. This $17 million will pay for construction of pollution control systems at 59 federal facilities, and when the projects are complete, no later than July 1977, all federal facilities in New England will be in compliance with federal, state and local water pollution regulations. Funds for construction of water pollution facilities are appropriated by Congress each year and cannot be spent for any other purpose.

The largest water pollution control project currently under construction is a $2,336,000 project at the Avco-Lycoming Corporation in Stratford, Conn. The Avco-Lycoming plant is owned by the U. S. Air Force and manufactures airplane parts. The waste water is loaded with heavy metals, oily wastes, and plating wastes. When the plant is fully operational, probably by the end of the summer, all these pollutant wastes will be controlled by the best practicable control technology.

Since 1968, the federal government has built or installed about two million dollars worth of air pollution control equipment at government facilities in New England. Thirty of approximately 2,000 major sources of air pollution (emitting one hundred or more tons of pollutants annually) are federal facilities. All but six were in compliance as of July 1975, and the federal government has allocated eight million dollars for pollution control facilities to correct those six sources.

One beneficiary of these funds is the New London Submarine Base in New London, Conn. The $472,000 project will provide control technology for particulate emissions from a power plant on the base.

Thus, although the major thrust of EPA's pollution control program is directed toward municipalities and industries, the federal government spent a significant amount of money to stop pollution from its own facilities.

Hathaway Reports

Sen. William D. Hathaway

Imagine this: You are months overdue on your bank loan and out of work. Instead of sending the collectors after you to repossess everything but the wolf at the door, the bank tries to find you a job so you can repay the loan.

Well, it actually happened last year in Pennsylvania when a local bank discovered that 75% of its overdue loans were held by persons out of work. Moreover, the bank was able to find many people with delinquent accounts jobs.

Unfortunately, too many people don't have to imagine the payments due and the unemployment, but the bank's novel response to the problem is certainly an encouraging development.

Last winter in nearby New Jersey, fuel merchants cooperated with the state offices serving the elderly to arrange a credit program for senior citizens unable to pay for heating fuel.

Virginia Knauer, the President's Special Advisor on Consumer Affairs calls such efforts "People Helping People". She has many stories to tell of such volunteer efforts of individuals helping themselves and others to cope with problems of inflation, energy shortages and unemployment. She is looking for more and would like to hear from Maine.

The Office of Consumer Affairs is trying to keep tabs on these programs throughout the country so that other communities, businesses or local groups might benefit from the examples. The office plans eventually to act as a clearing house to advise and direct people interested in setting up their own programs similar to ones already in existence.

Considering the likelihood of continuing increases in the price of vital necessities of food and energy and the high level of unemployment, this type of volunteer outreach can help ease the burden for individuals especially hard hit.

If you are involved in any programs fitting the "People Helping People" description or wish to find out more about these efforts to start your own in Maine, contact the Office of Consumer Affairs at the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, Washington, D. C. 20201.

Held in the annex of the church each Friday afternoon during the summer months, the shop features hand-crafted items, home cooked food, a variety of toys and gifts, all produced by the ladies of the church. Shown at one of the many display tables are Mrs. Myrtle Lapham, Mrs. Sarah Stevens, Mrs. Hulda Stevens, Mrs. Frances Saunders and Mrs. Ethel Ward, who have given over 20 years each of their time and talents to make this project a success. Absent when the photo was taken was the Gift Shop founder, and constant worker, Mrs. Elsie Davis. MORE FLOOD INSURANCE AVAILABLE SAYS NFIA

The National Flood Insurers Association (NFIA) has announced that flood insurance has become available for residential and non-residential properties in 493 areas of 46 states. Damage from flooding is not covered in standard property insurance policies.

Private insurance agents and brokers are authorized to offer flood insurance to interested owners of residential and non-residential properties. Coverage on contents also will be sold to owners and occupants of such buildings.

The insurance industry is participating in this program through the National Flood Insurers Association, a group representing about 125 insurance companies. These participating companies act as the servicing organization on behalf of the Association for the benefit of all agents, brokers and other companies.

The new flood coverage is being offered in accordance with requirements established by the U. S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) under the terms of Flood Disaster Protection Act of 1973. The government also participates in the flood program through premium equalization payments, so that subsidized cost will be in the range of the average insured's pocket-book.

The federal act requires that communities interested in becoming eligible for flood insurance must take action to restrict unwise land use in flood-prone areas. They must ask HUD to arrange for detailed studies of the flood hazard in the community so actuarial rates can be established.

The amount of flood insurance available at subsidized rates under the government's emergency program is limited to $35,000 for single-family residences, with maximum of $100,000 on all other types of residential and non-residential properties. Lowest flood insurance for contents is limited to $10,000 for all residential property and $100,000 on non-residential properties. Tenants may insure contents separately.

The NFIA advises that anyone who is interested in buying the flood coverage should contact his regular agent or broker for further assistance and information rates, policy limits and conditions and other important details.

The areas in Maine eligible for flood insurance are as follows: Bethel, Carthage, New Sweden, Stetson, Cornville, South Bristol, China, St. Albans, Upton, Blaine, Brownfield, Buckfield, Cornish, Dexter, Grand Isle, North Berwick, Randolph, Sumner, Temple, Woodstock, Fairfield, Hallowell, Limerick, Monmouth, Marshfield, Jonesport.

Maine Communities are serviced by Commercial Union Insurance Co., c/o Campbell, Payson & Noyes, 27 Pearl Street, Box 527, Pearl Street Station, Portland, Me. 04116.

IN MEMORIAM

In loving Memory of my Mother, Nellie Doris Jodrey Daye, who passed away a year ago today, August 28th, 1974 I look up and see the clouds roll by And I know "Mom", I shouldn't cry, I knew one day, you'd have to go But I wasn't prepared, tho you suffered so. All the hell and misery upon this earth Was yours to bear, from your day of birth, Not many knew, what you had to go thru Never complaining, always faithful, honest and true, God knew the time, He felt your grief You'd suffered enough, you cried for relief, And so it was, that you went away To find the painless, quiet peace, I pray.

The beautiful soft white clouds, the blue sky above Bring contentment, you're free now, like the flying Dove And so, as I slowly wipe the tears away, I cry within for all the love you gave. For, if the Good Lord, had to take you, "Mom", He had his reasons, and you'll find your first Born, And knowing, there is a place for the Very Best I Pray, Brother "Bill", and you are now at rest.
